LIKE UNTO A MUSTARD A SEED

We had mustard greens in the yard that nobody planted
so nobody think to water yet they flourished like said Kingdom of God in the King James version of the truth sprinkling the doorway
to we consciousness
with fine yellow flowers proof that even
hard trampled earth
could sustain
the necessary joy
in a righteous house
dark seed
suspire hope
in the raillery of the sun

Mustard yellow
and fierce green
our yard
and visitors to the house
like birds

Calabash: A Journal of Caribbean Arts and Letters is an international literary journal dedicated to publishing works encompassing, but not limited to, the Anglophone, Francophone, Hispanophone and Dutch-speaking Caribbean. The Journal is especially dedicated to presenting the arts and letters of those communities that have long been under-represented within the creative discourse of the region, among them: Aruba and the Netherlands Antilles, Maroon societies, and the Asian and Amerindian societies of the region. Calabash has a strong visual arts component.

Calabash is published by New York University. Please contact the publisher for further permissions regarding the use of this work. Publisher information may be obtained at:
